Mr. Calvin stated that the Sloss-Sheffield Company had recently bought additional ore land around Russellville, one farm alone being bought by that company for $60,000, the purchase to include the iron ore rights alone, The Sloss-Sheffield company already operates a large iron ore mine in Franklin county.

Mr. Calvin stated that his business in Russellville was good and getting ---that it appeared the Ter tenssee Valley Bank was also prospering in the Franklin County capital judging from the fine new bank buildng now being erected there.

The building of the Tennessee Val ley Bank at Russellville is to be built of native stone.

The activities reported from Russellville have caused much speculation as to their possible effects on the proposed new railroad out of Russellville via Moulton and Mount Hope to the Twin Cities.

Proposition Made By identify the American reported to Community Club Is Accepted

On the ground that its action taken n passing a resolution asking the state public service commission to take up the matter of allowing the Alabama Power company to erect a power transmission line out of the Tri-Cities, via the Twin Cities to Gadsden was premature, the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce directors last night voted to rescind that action. J. W. Clopton, president, was asked to write to the power company and the state public service commission of the action taken.

"We are for Ford for Muscle Shoals for another thing," said a prominent member of the board of directors "and our action in seeking to hurry up action by the state public service commission was being construed as unfavorable to Mr. Ford's bid."

The meeting was well attended Other matters were discussed. An invitation was drawn asking the state T. P. A. convention to meet here in 1924 and delivered to F. H. Pointer member of the board, who is also president of the local T. P. A. organization. Mr. Pointer was asked to pre-

YENCHOW-FU, China, May 8. legotiations have been started for the release of the prisoners held by the Chinese bandits. The bandits are located 30 miles from Lincheng. One of the American majors held captive is reported wounded.

LONDON, May 8 .- A ransom of $2,000,000 for the foreigners held prisorer is demanded by the Chinese bandits, says a Central News dispatch from Shanghai today.

The British and American garrisons at Pien-Tsin have been mobilized, the dispatch adds.

SHANGHAI, May 8 .- Two foreign ers, including one unidentified American, have been killed in the shooting incident to the bandit raid on the Pe king express train, according to a list compiled here today.

One of the foreigners was Joseph Rothman, a British subject.

Two escaped Chinese passengers arriving at Tsinan related that the captives were marched ten miles into the hills and there classified by the tion to Messrs Brittain and Bingham, more than two hours law chieftain according to their probable worth. After questioning it was decided that foreigners would be held for a ransom of $50,000 each, Chinese of the first class for $30,000 each, those of the second class for $10,000 and those held to be of lower value for $2,000.

The Chinese newspaper Shun Tao published in Shanghai, reported that Kang Tung Yu, its Sunday editor, was captured and released. The brigands are said to be splitting into groups with their captives and scattering into the hills 20 miles from the railway.

A regiment of Kaingsu provincial troops has been sent from Nanking. So far it has been impossible to

ANTI-CARNIVAL ORDINANCES.

Following the annuoncement that one of the city councils has passed an ordinance against the appearance of street carnivals, and that the other Twin City will pass a sinilar ordinance, some question has raisen as to whether the time honored "circus" is placed under the ban by the new ordinance. While a copy of the ordinance mentions circuses in the first line of Section I. seems that the ordinary circus is not barred in the instrument. The first clause of the ordinance reads as follows: "That all so-called circuses giv ing performances for more than one day in any calendar month."

As none of the regular circuses appear here oftener than once a month they are not there fore included; but the ordinance does seem limit the number of circuses to one a month. The entire anti-carnival ordinance is a short one, a copy of which is as follows:

Sec. 1: That all so-called circuses giving performances for more than one day in any calendar month; and all street fairs, carnivals, tent shows and dramatic performances charging admission fees, and all other exhibitions for which admission fees are charged, except those conducted in a regulari licensed theatre or play house, are hereby prohibited, and declared to be unlawful and nuisances; and the issuance of license therefor is pro-

Sec. 2. Any person, firm or corporation conricted of being concerned with any performance tted by section one, and any person conof assisting, a iding or abetting any such enterprise or performance shall be fined $25 and sentenced to hard labor for the city for not exceeding 100 days.

Sec. 3. It is hereby made the duty of all police officers of the city to abate all such nuisances as are prohibited by Sec. 1.

A great many recreations are, as a matter of fact dissipations.

If it were right to return evil for evil, the convicts in certain prison camps should do unto the gards as they have been done unto.

DEAR WINIFRED BLACK:

A preacher says that 80 per cent of the ministerial students come from the smaller towns and the country. It seems the city boys are too busy engaged in other things to take up the work of the ministry.

The cities now contain the majority of population in America and if 80 per cent of the preachers are to come from the country the cities are showing up in a bad light.

It is related that Rev. Herman Hershey, Presbyt rian minister of Birmingham, was sent to that city several years ago as the head of a large industrial concern. After a few years trying to get production up to the highest possible point in spite of strikes and labor troubles, he wrote his superiors in the east that he was quitting his job as soon as his successor arrived.

He told the financers that what Birmingham needed was not more industries but more religion. Taking up his work in a small way he has steadily climed upward in influence until hundreds are becoming to realize that before money can be safely invested in a community preachers must first have prepared the way.

The crystalization of these facts brought about the presentation of a loving cup to a minister of Birmingham, Rev. J. A. Bryan, who happened also to be a Presbyterian, for being the one who had accomplished the most good for the community.

So the city would invest its money in enterprises that offer large gain but as usual wants the country to protect the investment.

SUGAR PROFITEERS

ARE MATCHED.

While sugar has become a necessity, still it can be used on a sliding scale to such an extent that the profiteers in the staple food are having a hard time keeping the prices up. Ordinarily more sugar is used then necessary, more than is required to maintain a balanced ration, so when the price went soaring, it was a comparatively easy thing for the housewives to reduce the family allowance. The women decieded they did not care to be held up so they held up on the amount of sugar they bught. AMADITHMI I WANTED

While the sugar market is still far from normal, it has shown a marked decline of late. The corner on sugar is said stiff to exist, but the speculators have had a heavy shake up.

When the country fully realizes there is plenty of sugar to be had and that its high price was brought about by speculators, the sugar corner will be broken again and the would-be generally goes around disguised as profiteers will be caught in their own trap.

It is no laughing matter for as important an article of food as sugar to be tampered with, and if those guilty of attempting to boost its price

The lessons learned during the world war when sugarless days ond all kinds of eatless days were cheerfully endured, will stand the housewives in good stead during the present drive against the sugar price boosters. If the women can break the attempt corner in sugar they will have done a great service to the country in general and will have taught the gamblers a lesson.

you be remembering these things? How can you shut your eyes to the plain facts of life-whoever are, or wherever you live, or however hard you try?

it is unjust to those who do try to be honest and good, and loyal and courageous to say that those who are dishonest and untruthful, and disloyal and cowardly, are good.

It's simply the wild outpour of someone in the throes of an entirely earthly infatuation-there's nothing noble, nothing high-minded, nothing unusual about that sort of thing.

can see him at the right or the wrong moment—that's what she thinks when she leaves home and Mother and good name behind to follow the false life of a false love down to humiliation, misery and disgrace.

Real Love Requires Respect

I saw a boy at his mother's home just the other day—he fell in love with a woman old enough to be his mother—a woman steeped to the lips in evil, and schooled to the last degree in every sophistry of every vice, and when that boy's father tried to tell him to keep away from that woman, the boy quoted this very poem you quote-and thought he had made an unanswerable argument.

That was a year ago-the boy's at home now, for his "narrow-

Real love is born-and dies-just as every other emotion is born

There now, that's what I think-and I can't help it, my friend, if

I read every one of your articles and usually agree with you, but not long ago I read an article which disappointed me, and I must take issue with you.

Do you believe that people are only loved or should only be loved as long as they are "good," in the conventional sense of the word? Does not a mother love a naughty child as much, if not more, than a good one? Did not Jesus, Himself, say He came not to save

Do you not remember the story of Mary Magdalene Winified Black and the accompanying parable—Luke 7, verses 36 to 50?

If this is still insufficient to convince you that each and every one of us is a perfect child of God, if only seen through the eyes of Love, let me quote Seesila Note. Sarajini Naida in her wonderful poem, "Love Trlumphant. If your fair mind were quenched with dark distress, Your dear hands stained with fierce blood-guiltiness,

Or your sweet flesh rotting from the bone. Should not my deep unchanging love atone And shield you from the sore decree of Fate And the world's storm of horror and of hate? What were to me your dire disease or crime, The scorn of men, the cold revenge of Time? Has life a suffering still I shall not dare, Love, for your sake to conquer or to bear,

If I might yield you solace, succor, rest, And hush your awful anguish on my breast? All of which I hope will convince you that REAL love never dies. The more, apparently, unworthy the object of your love becomes, the more he is really in need of it. Would you refuse a hungry man food? A man dying

What we need in this world today is love—real undying and spiritual love. We need to keep faith in our beloved ones, and let me assure you that if we do they will be worthy.

I thank you

Yes, We're All Sinners

TES, my dear, I've heard that about Mary Magdalene-and the woman taken in sin-before-a good many times before. But did you ever notice that He who forgave the sinful woman that will sicken you to the very heart.

said to her, "Go and sin no more"? If she had kept right on in her evil ways, do you think she would have been held up to us for an example?

Sinners, why yes, of course, we're all sinners. Some of us are big and some of us are little, some of us are crafty and some of us are le but we're all sinners just the same. Who that has ever fallen to follow. and risen again, tried to run and stumbled, tried to succeed and failed, tried to be generous and noble, and only made a dozen foolish short- you don't like it.

selfish we all are—even the best of us? But, when you say that every one of us is a perfect child-how can

All men are not good men, and all women are not good women, and

And as for your poem that you quote with so much triumph-I'm afraid I don't care very much for it. It sounds very well, I'll admit that-but what does it mean?

The silly girl who falls in love with a prize-fighter because she happens to be at the falling-in-love time and he happens to be where she

The little ringbearer, Jean Wood of Winnsboro, in shell pink chiffon over satin, brought the ring in the heart of a lily.

The groom entered with his best man, Mr. O. H. Ligon of Birmingham, Ala. They were followed by the little flower girl, Miss Margaret Land, who wore white taffets and who preceded the bride, scattering flowers in he pathway of the bride.

The bride entered with her brother, Mr. F. P. LaBoon of Clemson College and was met at the altar by the groom. The bride and groom took their places under the arch in front of the altar and Rev. Mr. Stokes performed the ceremony with the ring ceremony of the Methodist church.

The bride was never more beautiful than in her wedding gown of ivory satin with court train. Her filmy tulle, veil was fastened with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bou quet of bride's roses, showered with valley lilies.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was used as a repessional, the bridal party left the hurch and repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wall, where a brilljant reception was held, HARTSELLE, Ala., May 9 .- Special.)-In this county before the hostilities between the states began the name of Professor Z Freean was a household word in practically all the nomes of this county, due to his efficient activities as a successful school teacher. At Danville, 9 miles west of here he taught a number of years a most successful school which was known far and wide for its efficiency and the strict discipline attending it. Many of his former pupils yet live in North-Alabama and practically all of them living and dead made their mark in the world of affairs when they took their places in the ranks of good citizenship.

At Danville which at that time was one of the most populous and wealthy sections of this country his pupils took the lead in the affairs of their counharacteristics which made him fa-

After hostilities between the states northern man served with distinction in the Confederate army, and returned home, taught for a number of years at Somerville, then the county seat.

At that place as at Danville the same high efficiency was maintained and all of his pupils mastered the fundamentals of a lasting education which gave them prominence in the affairs of their time.

The occasion of a reunion of his former pupils, which will be held here this week, promises to be one of the happiest occasions of the kind in recent years, and many out of town visitors are looked for on this occasion. The matter is in the hands of Prof. John C. Tidwell, himself a former pupil of Proffessor Freeman and is proceeding with the formation of a suitable program for the occision.
